

How to cook a delicious student meal in 30 easy steps

A recipe by Matt Gurtler

You will need:

An onion
A red pepper
A bag of pasta of your choice
One clove of garlic
250g Chopped tomatoes
Self-Pity

Method

1. Decide to cook.
 2. Get ready to go to little Sainsbury's.
 3. Realise little Sainsbury's is a whole 2 minute walk from your room and reconsider.
 4. Go to little Sainsbury's.
 5. Get cash and check your bank balance while you're at it.
 6. Cry.
 7. Buy ingredients.
 8. Ooh, Doritos are on offer!
 9. Buy Doritos!
 10. Go back to your room.
 11. Eat Doritos.
 12. Stop eating Doritos because you need to cook.
 13. Eat some more Doritos.
 14. Chop up the onion.
 15. Cry.
 16. Sweat the onion in a non-stick pan with some garlic (whatever that means).
 17. Boil a large pan of salted water.
 18. Realise you have no salt.
 19. Cry (preferably into the pan to salt the water).
 20. Add the pepper and tomatoes to the pan.
 21. Realise added the ingredients to the wrong pan.
 22. Cry.
 23. As you've ruined your ~~life~~ meal, decide to go to hall.
 24. Realise that it's ten past seven, and hall is closed.
 25. Cry.
 26. Go back to your room.
 27. Cry.
 28. Eat Doritos.
 29. Cry.
 30. Order Domino's.

What is Green Officer Maddy Clifford's favourite colour?

Bed.

Introducing your resident (college) Agony Aunt...

MADAM MIDDLE

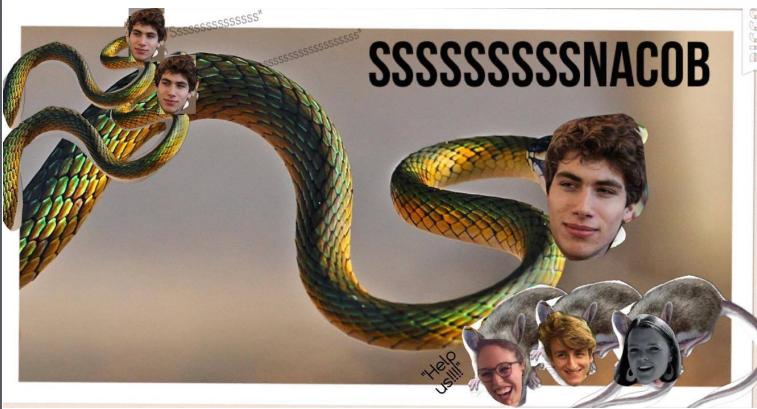

CONCERNED READER:

Dear Madam Middell,
I've had a bit of ballot stress
this week. I've been snaked out of a ballot group by snakey
Snacob himself! His cunning
serpentine ways have left me,
like a thousand others,
estranged, ostracized, alienated and alone. He is corrupting the Eden that is Emmanuel College
and his cold-blooded, reptilian antics must be stopped! I fell for his seductive, insidious,
sibilant, ensaring subtle schemes and there is perhaps no hope for me now! Is there anything I can do to save my ballot Madam Middell? Do you have any advice for others who may be charmed by this snakey man as I once was?

Yours truly,
A single-balloter.

MADAM MIDDLELL:

Snakey Snacob has struck again, has he? I am shocked and ashamed. Sadly, this is perhaps an issue on which I can give no guidance. Can Snakey Snacob ever be stopped? I fear not. Best become a hermit, dearie.

Update on Wednesday's Ballot Buster:

For the unlucky students who didn't make it the bar on Wednesday, you really missed out. It was an incredibly informative evening, which gave Freshers a cornucopia of information that couldn't be found on the (frankly, sparse and generalised) accommodation document. Those who missed the evening will have to face the ballot without knowledge of the hallowed accommodation secrets, and the effects will be devastating.

ROAR!

Your heart, bestowed upon me, ensures my utter disapproval of all but that vessel of tenderness; the core of me.

Lent 7: 28th February 2016

ECSUDDEN DEATH?!

Rumour has it that, despite ECSU's polished exterior, there is unsettlement amongst the ranks and cracks are beginning to form within the committee. In fact, whilst to the untrained eye this week's What's On email may look like nothing out of the ordinary, there seem to be many cryptic clues hiding within the text which indicate the imminent downfall of our student union...

Note how Secretary Amy Duff's opening line contains the phrase 'you'll miss it when it's over though!'. Miss what when it's over, Amy Duff? ECSU? Amy Duff then goes on to indicate the expected date of the downfall - 'later this week' - which is concealed within a sentence innocently reminding students about the upcoming careers event. And take note of the way in which Amy Duff signs off the email: 'you've reached the end' - the end of what, Amy Duff? The end of the What's On email, or the end of something much bigger?

Be aware and be on the lookout. Has anyone seen President Katie Craven sporting her ECSU jumper recently? I certainly haven't...

(Sent by an anonymous observer/conspiracy theorist)

Haiku of the Week

Amazon locker
Parcels no longer in Pledge
Revolutionary

Prince William

Where's Walter? Find the Founder!

FLAVOUR OF THE WEEK:

Ribbed

ECRHS:
STATUS:
Regrowing

Adam Mirsky's self esteem levels:

∞

Day of the Week Dayve Glover

Sporting Success

Congrats to all boats in bumps, especially M3 who bumped the best, beating other boats to be bestowed with blades! Brilliant!

Emma Panthers 634 4 Aston Villa

HOW IS WELFARE OFFICER KEIR MONSTER'S WELFARE?
Coming over the hill

WRITE FOR ROAR! CHECK FB FOR MEETING TIMES! HYPE!